

If our democracy is to survive, the media must not be monopolized by any individual or organization. We are already suffering from news deprivation.